

WHAT IS IT

24/7 Virtualdoc is a supplement to the existing health care system, but adapted to companies' needs for flexibility and mobility. Online medical advice when your employees need it - and not only when the doctor has time.

In practice, the workplace can make a "Health Station" available with miscellaneous medical devices, that can be used remotely by the physicians to make better assessments.

The service is available during working hours, but additional coverage can be purchased.

Legally 24/7 Virtualdoc provide the same services as general practitioners in relation to referrals, prescriptions, etc.

All associated physicians are fully authorised by the proper authorities, and with a minimum of 5 years experience. Medical specialists in general medicine and a wide range of other specialties are associated.

WHAT DOES IT COST?

Basic cost of a medical consultation (video, phone or email): EUR 74.

Depending on the number of employees and service level (work, leisure, family coverage, travel, hours of coverage), a plan can be tailored to meet your needs.

WHY THIS SERVICE?

On average, a person consult a general practitioner for a medical consultation more than 6 times a year. Elderly and families with children visits the doctor more frequently, women visit more often than men (and also live longer).

When an employee visits the doctor during working hours, the average absence to the company could be 1/2 day – resulting in costs between EUR 130 - 1.300 depending on the job and the way the cost of absence is calculated.

Our experience shows that approximately half of these inquiries can be solved via an online video consultation. In addition, consider the preventive health effect of fast and easy access to the doctor, which the service may have for busy people who SHOULD go to the doctor, but does not get it done.

Evidence reveals that even a single conversation with a doctor has a beneficial effect on health regardless of whether you have symptoms or not. Probably motivated by an awareness of good health, which of course is the starting point for a positive change in behaviour.
